If the executable is compiled to 32-bit, the function returns the status of a 32-bit process, even if a 64-bit Windows is running. What if I want to use one of the functions listed in the API function list that requires 64-bit execution? It causes problems like you are trying to run a Windows program on 32-bit Windows! To resolve this issue, you need Windows to support multiple languages and that those languages apply to the version of the program that runs in 32-bit mode instead of 64-bit.
